Norway 37; Gould Academy 8

Norway high school basketball team flashed a surprise on Parsons Gould's gamblers at the Norway gym, Friday night, and won a slab sided game, 37-8.

The Bethel outfit was checked on every move and kept in a defensive attitude throughout the contest. Norway had the ball most of the time, but they didn't do a thing but plug at the visitor's basket. The locals missed chances to run the score still higher while Quimby, the Gould's right guard seemed to be the only player in his string to get the range with any marked success. Norway guards worked their position effectively and the whole team jimmied the pill like a veteran. Coach Jimmy Cole smiled broadly and well he might.

Norway high seconds defeated the Gould Reserves in the preliminary game, score 21-7.

Norway 1542; South Paris 1526

Sixteen pins separated the South Paris and Norway teams picked from the Kiwanis Club, after a battle royal at the Norway alley, Tuesday evening. This made two straight for Norway and a rubber of two each in a five game series. The teams have been picked strictly on town lines with no regard to ability. The Kiwanis Club in general and the good old home town in particular.

In spite of winning two strings, the South Paris team had a very hard time. In the first game, the total was added, but a 16 pin defeat is nothing to mourn over.

There never was a wide margin during the evening. Norway had the lead of 10 pins after the first string. South Paris held their own and retrieved 7 candles during the second. Again in the third, their reserve power was unworked and 24 pins were added to the collection. Norway lost steadily after the opening flash, despite Dr. Easton's heroic flash, netting a game total of 284.

Rensel Colby of South Paris was high striker with a total of 288 and led the entire field.

Game Warden Inspections

Camps Looked After by Warden

Wm. R. French is game warden of this district, and is a busy man, even in the winter. He made his home in Norway and is a member of the Weary Club. He is on the move every day when it's stormy.

On the return from a recent trip, he said, "It seems strange when camps and cottages are closed for the winter the owners do not put their name and address on the camp or give the name and address of the caretaker. I've spent the greater portion of the afternoon trying to find someone who has the care of a camp at the Poopose Pond. It has been broken into and the owner's name is gone. I'm unable to find out who camp it is or who has charge of it. In my travels I always look over the camps and usually put a card, giving date of inspection, under the door. I recently visited forty-two camps in the Keen Lake territory. I know the most of those camps. They are all in good shape, and none, as far as I could see, had been molested. I make it a point to look the camps over in my travels."

Mr. French finally found out the owner of the Poopose Pond camp. It was the Ward Camp, with caretaker and address of owner known.

REBEKAH INSPECTION AND SOCIAL HOUR

There was inspection during the morning of Mount Hope Rebeah Lodge, Friday evening, by Mrs. Belle W. Lewis of Auburn, warden of the Rebeah Association. Credit Men

Monthly Meeting Held at Legion Hall

The Norway Branch of the Lewiston-Auburn Credit Association, held its January meeting, Wednesday evening at the American Legion Hall. The ladies of the Auxiliary served dinner. The business meeting followed with a general discussion of conditions, and the new rating books for the year were distributed.

The speaker was V. M. Canham of Lewiston, who entertained in his usual inimitable and pleasant manner, touching on the serious and then on the amusing. He deplored so much talk of "hard times" and cited several instances of his own observations over the state in his work connected with the Agricultural Department of the Lewiston Daily Sun, where business had been better in 1930 than in the previous year. In telling of some personal experiences, he had his hearers convulsed with laughter. Mr. Canham is always welcome in Norway gatherings for they know they will hear something worthwhile as well as something amusing "sandwiched" in.

The February meeting will be held at South Paris and Mrs. Ralph R. Butts, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

MOVING PICTURES

For Use in the High School

A Holmes Projector, a motion picture machine, designed for schools and small halls has been added to the equipment at Norway High School. The outfit is portable, uses standard width film of the non-combustible type and projects large and clear pictures.

Films are procured from the Agricultural department, Bureau of Mines, Singer Sewing Machine Co., Buick Co., Du Pont, General Electric, and other corporations, featuring publicity in a popular and informative way.

The subjects in the practically free service are educational and widely missed suggesting commercial ventures, there is a whole lot of interesting and worthwhile things not acquired from books or proxy lectures.

There seems to be no limit to the possibilities of imparting knowledge on the screen. This service will be extended through a careful selection of subjects having a bearing on school work at hand.

Norway Woman's Club

C. G. Fielder of Orono, Recently Located in India, the Speaker

The Norway Woman's Club met Tuesday afternoon with an unusually large gathering. The members of the South Paris Community Club were guests, and a large delegation accepted. The ministers and wives of the two towns were also special guests. The meeting opened with singing and the Club Collected. Albert Henley, 16 year old high school lad, gave two excellent vocal solos, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Wood, music instructor at the high school. Young Henley has an unusual voice and at the present time, he is taking lessons with Prof. Howard B. Stevens in Portland. He has many friends who are interested to see him progress.

The speaker of the afternoon was Cecil G. Fielder of Orono, whose lecture was "Mahatma Gandhi" and as Mr. Fielder was in India during the last Non-Cooperation Movement, he was able to bring first hand knowledge. Many have been studying and reading of this wonderful "Little Brown Man", who is making such sacrifices for his people and country, and in his talk of more than an hour, Mr. Fielder held his audience almost spell-bound, so vividly did he picture conditions there.

A social hour followed and Mrs. Fielder and Mrs. Carroll Wilson, president of the Community Club, were given an informal reception. Tea was served by the hospitality committee.

The next meeting will be observed as Children's Day, and they will be entertained at Rex Theatre, Friday afternoon, February 6th. It is hoped to have "Huckleberry Finn", but Mr. Harriman is unable to get it at this time, so he promises something "just as good." A very large number of Norway's residents are expected to hear the pastor's lecture on "The Service of the House." The slides were taken from photographs taken in New York work on the subject of "The Music Master" by a current album on Broadway. The slides are beautifully hand-colored. The screen has a metallic finish, permits of a very do not come out of the room. People enjoyed the Y. P. C. U. get-together at West Paris last Sunday evening. Norway Woman's Club

The Norway Woman's Club met Tuesday afternoon with an unusually large gathering. The members of the South Paris Community Club were guests, and a large delegation accepted. The ministers and wives of the two towns were also special guests. The meeting opened with singing and the Club Collected. Albert Henley, 16 year old high school lad, gave two excellent vocal solos, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Wood, music instructor at the high school. Young Henley has an unusual voice and at the present time, he is taking lessons with Prof. Howard B. Stevens in Portland. He has many friends who are interested to see him progress.

The speaker of the afternoon was Cecil G. Fielder of Orono, whose lecture was "Mahatma Gandhi" and as Mr. Fielder was in India during the last Non-Cooperation Movement, he was able to bring first hand knowledge. Many have been studying and reading of this wonderful "Little Brown Man", who is making such sacrifices for his people and country, and in his talk of more than an hour, Mr. Fielder held his audience almost spell-bound, so vividly did he picture conditions there.

A social hour followed and Mrs. Fielder and Mrs. Carroll Wilson, president of the Community Club, were given an informal reception. Tea was served by the hospitality committee.

The next meeting will be observed as Children's Day, and they will be entertained at Rex Theatre, Friday afternoon, February 6th. It is hoped to have "Huckleberry Finn", but Mr. Harriman is unable to get it at this time, so he promises something "just as good." Further arrangements for time and dividing the schools will be announced next week.

Game Warden Inspections

Camps Looked After by Warden

Wm. R. French is game warden of this district, and is a busy man, even in the winter. He made his home in Norway and is a member of the Weary Club. He is on the move every day when it's stormy.

On the return from a recent trip, he said, "It seems strange when camps and cottages are closed for the winter the owners do not put their name and address on the camp or give the name and address of the caretaker. I've spent the greater portion of the afternoon trying to find someone who has the care of a camp at the Poopose Pond. It has been broken into and the owner's name is gone. I'm unable to find out who camp it is or who has charge of it. In my travels I always look over the camps and usually put a card, giving date of inspection, under the door. I recently visited forty-two camps in the Keen Lake territory. I know the most of those camps. They are all in good shape, and none, as far as I could see, had been molested. I make it a point to look the camps over in my travels."

Mr. French finally found out the owner of the Poopose Pond camp. It was the Ward Camp, with caretaker and address of owner known.

REBEKAH INSPECTION AND SOCIAL HOUR

There was inspection during the morning of Mount Hope Rebeah Lodge, Friday evening, by Mrs. Belle W. Lewis of Auburn, warden of the Rebeah Association. Mrs. Addie Mann, the district deputy president of Bryant Pond and Mrs. Fred Hayes of Auburn also were present. Guest delegates attended from Sunset Lodge, Bethel, and Pleasant Lodge, South Paris and Onward Lodge of West Paris.

The degree was conferred and this new work received many compliments. Refreshments in charge of Mrs. Doris Snell, were served during the social hour.

What Uncle Lem Says

"The Interests" have taken the alarm from the fact that the maker of an income tax will seriously be brought before the Legislature by those who will try to have taxation reduced. The last Sunday Telegram had an editorial stating that the measure would be unconstitutional. A second, that not much money would be raised under it. A third that it would keep rich men from settling in Maine, and a fourth, that such a measure would be double taxation. These are all that need here to be considered.

As to rich men not settling in Maine under such a law, they are not doing so now to any appreciable extent. And respecting the other objections, other states have an income tax law and it's practicability as a revenue measure and a means of easing the farmer's burdens would depend upon the terms of the law itself.

The great point is that the editor put forward no plan and showed no sympathy for the tax burdened people of the state. "The Interests" thus can safely be reckoned, without a doubt against all efforts to equalize the burdens of the people. And what a setting this will be for the opening of the Political Contest of 1932 in Maine! The leaders will learn when it's too late that the battle can't be fought along the old lines any more. Your Uncle Lemuel is as satisfied as of him, from his own experience, as of the return of Spring.

"The Lesson the people should get from all this—and they should get some lesson from passing events—is, that they must rely upon themselves for relief. They must turn to their towns and drastically cut their appropriations. This is a very disagreeable business, it may be assumed, but it must be done to furnish any real relief. The leading men of the State have early said this and heads of departments are considering before the town meetings how they can reduce appropriations without destroying efficiency. This is wise.

Will Norway and Paris men who run affairs be as wise? We shall see.

—Uncle Lem.

WHY ADVERTISE?

Everybody Knows Me

When the automobile manufacturers of America had produced enough cars so that there was one to nearly every family that could buy a car they did not stop making cars or advertising them. Either they got together and said, "Now we will proceed to sell each family another car."

They might have saved their money and said, "Everybody knows our car and all about it, why advertise?" But they didn't. They advertised all the more.

Often times a merchant thinks, "Why should I advertise? Everyone here knows me. I get their trade."

If this sort of policy had prevailed with the manufacturers of automobiles when they had sold everyone a car they would have quit.

A merchant, even though he is the only merchant in his locality, can make money by advertising, because by advertising he can increase sales. A man who leads his customers to buy more, to buy the new things that come on the market. He can stimulate desire and create demand and thus increase his sales and his profits. It is the modern merchandising way. It is good business.

Another argument against women smoking is that when a man drops ashes from his cigarette he just burns his clothes.

"He got through, but almost at the risk of his life. He shivered strenuously. By the time he reached Hotel Malvern, he was a sick man. He was not in condition to deliver the address and Mr. and Mrs. Gilles of the hotel added to the discomfort of his Kivianian friends, ministered to his needs and assisted him as speedily as possible to the comfort of a warm room and a soft bed.

TRACT OF LAND IN POLAND NOT IN OTISFIELD

Recent researches by the Androscoggin County Commissioners indicate a tract of land containing nearly one and one-half square miles in area on the north-west shore of Thompson Pond, which has been considered a part of the town of Otisfield in Cumberland County for many years, is actually a part of the town of Poland.

Separated from other lands of Poland township, this piece of land in the vicinity of Edwards Cove, is also separated from all other lands in Androscoggin County. Except by ice or water routes, this tract can only be reached from Poland by passing through towns in other counties.

It is said Poland has not been taxing land and buildings, polls or property in this tract, which at once raises the question whether any other town has. The investigation has not proceeded this far, but from all information at hand county commissioners believe this shore tract comes under Poland's jurisdiction.

Attention was called to the situation by the owner of islands in the southern stretch of Thompson Pond wanted to know if his property was in the jurisdiction of Poland or Otisfield, Androscoggin or Cumberland County. He based the claim on the fact that the shore line of the pond marked the Poland boundary.

Investigations of commissioners to date have indicated it is entirely true; that the boundary line of the county is a continuation of straight lines cutting across the lower section of the pond and intersecting at a point "about 100 rods from the northwest shore of Thompson Pond."

In fact the bounds set down in the old Bakers town grant in 1795, which includes the present towns of Poland, Minot and Mechanic Falls and the city of Auburn, says there is a line of the day stone set up at this point. Continuing it says "Then Northeast 438 rods to a large white pine standing on the shore of said pond."

The pine which marked the boundary crossing on the northwest shore of Thompson Pond must be gone, but the old survey description further says "Northeast from said pine a mile and 148 rods to Bakerstown north corner," which brings one to the present north corner of Auburn, jutting northwest from the present Auburn-Turner boundary.

The dividing of the county boundary into a resolve of the General Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. It says the discrepancy between the surveys of Amos Davis and Southgate should be interpreted in favor of the latter's, which gave Bakerstown a more western bearing for its northwest boundary.

Further research in this direction carries one into the archives of the day when Leviathan was known as Livingston Plantation and "The Gore," Turner as Sylvester Canada, Leeds as Port Royal.

The chairman of the study and Chairman Fred L. Leavitt, who is particularly adept at this work, is anxious to know of further records that may have bearing on the case.

TOWN

Perplexities of the Apple Dealer

By R. L. Cummings of West Paris

What's the matter with our apple business? "Well to be polite," "busted!" that's about it. Most everybody knows what that means now. I just got sight of some of my old checks for November 1916, $16,321.21 for one month paid for apples. So it runs in the apple months up to over $50,000, in Oct. 1924. I remember a year back of that. A lot of us were shipping to Minneapolis Lake and Rail. Weather getting mighty cold. Navigation to close up. The railroad fellows said they hadn't any cars for us. I knew a real railroad fellow in Portland. His name was Gardiner. He was the real goods. If there was a loose car on the road and you needed it you'd get it pronto.

I told him my story, and when I got there, early the next morning, he had a whole trainload of cars waiting. Everybody had cars. Those apples went out quick and over six thousand dollars went into farmers' pockets. They didn't freeze up under the trees like they had to this year.

What makes the difference? Why the "Devil's" got our business. That's the matter. The railroad fellows said they hadn't any cars for us. I knew a real railroad fellow in Portland. His name was Gardiner. He was the real goods. If there was a loose car on the road and you needed it you'd get it pronto.

This little station of West Paris jumped up to head the list of this state with a shipment of 24,340 barrels, with South Paris, West Paris, Norway, and Monmouth close behind. I know just where 4,000 barrels of the West Paris apples grew up on Curtis Hill.

Pretty soon men with theories, that didn't grow or deal in apples began to talk and write about the apple business just as if they knew a whole lot more about the business than the men who were doing things and wanted to show us a whole lot of things. That we must have a whole lot of laws and inspectors and teachers.

Some of these men held offices and some others just wanted to. They had a law all made up that they said they were going to put on us to teach us how they wanted us to do things. When we looked it over it was so darn foolish it would make a horse or any sensible donkey laugh. But being aware that they would get something on us, we did stop and make a sensible law that anybody could understand, and any common lawyer couldn't misunderstand, put in a little time and drew our own leathers to pay our bills and went down to Augusta and got it passed.

It's funny how these fellows take advantage of our weakest spots. Everybody knows that's our heads. When we got that law passed we went home and went to sleep just as if that law would take care of itself and us too. Never was a law made that can do that; you've got to look out for the steering or or somebody else will do it. These talking fellows usually have an axe to grind and if you don't keep your eye peeled it will be at your expense.

There's another thing: These railroad presidents are mighty sharp; one of them told me he gave one of those talking fellows that was going to fix that law for us, a free pass over his whole line. I bet he was ready and willing to give me one then.

It was this way. I happened to be on the same train where that talking and writing fellow was and he came and told me that that railroad president wanted me to come into his car and have a talk with him. Sure enough I went and the talking and writing fellow introduced me and then went off to let us talk it over.

He told me a whole lot of things about his struggles for his road and how he gave this fellow a pass to ride as much as he wanted to. I was more interested in my apple orchard and everybody's else; we were in the same boat of course. He didn't know that I knew his railroad and his I. M. M. on the water also; and when I got to my getting off place and had to leave he shook his finger at me and hollered, "You're a dangerous man". I guess he paid me a compliment at that.

Just the same the railroad presidents are smart. They can smell a dollar further than a cat can smell a mouse, and they can follow the track of one that is older and colder than any fox track that the best hound in creation ever followed. So when they saw there was money in raising apples, they get it before we ever have a chance to get a look at it.

Somehow most of the officials we elect have a glass eye made of putty that they wear on the side where the big fellows walk, to get our dollars. They're short sighted and were a set of mummies until we got woke up. If they weren't so ternal short sighted they would know they were saving off the limb they were standing on and no sensible jackass will do that if he knows it. They find the donkey isn't getting fat on the shavings they've been feeding him, in spite of the pretty green glasses they put on his face, and now they're going to feed us a lot of sawdust because it doesn't cost them anything, and they can get pay for doing it.

Here's just what they have got in for us: They're going to pass a law to make us buy a whole lot more spray and dust stuff and use so much that they say we won't have any apple scab nor trier. Now the federal law and our state law says we can have scab as big as a circle a quarter of an inch across it on an A grade and another as big as a half inch across it on a B grade and that in a barrel we may have as much as fourteen pounds of apples not as good even as that and be all right. Now these fellows want a law that will give them a chance to cut down your orchard if you have such apples as these growing on them. Don't that look funny?

This fall an inspector says we can't have any of those little bits of late scab spots that you can't hardly see on an A grade, and you ask him if that's the law and he says that's our rules of inspection. So, have been making little laws that you can't find in the law books and you don't know when they're going to make one, and you may be passed by one inspector and then condemned by another on the same apples and Mr. — fines you fifty and says the jail is nearby and we can arrest you any time we want you. If you don't believe this just put some of our good citizens on the stand, who have had experience.

They keep growing worse and worse. This fall I had to pay $10.00 for a license to find any kind of apples, and you've got to pay for inspection, and pay the fellow for taking a nice ride in an automobile.

Now they haven't jobs enough for all the boys who don't want to work after we've nearly broke our backs and our pockets, to give them an education, so they plan to let another swarm loose on us to cut down our orchards if we don't spend more money than we can get out of the orchard, to buy spray and dust and everything else. They say they've got "a law" that says we've had enough of this nonsense. We're getting away past twenty-one and our backs are stiffer than they used to be and we haven't the snap in our legs that there used to be, but we haven't got "a fool in the head" yet. We want to just tell you that you're going too far. From the working direction we hear a holler for a work day of six hours, and five days a week and if we don't do all this and all that, they're going to have a Mr. — or somebody else come and boss the job of cutting down our apple trees that are still growing apples that the law says are A and B grade. Now these boys weren't such darn fools before they went away to school or got their eye on some job where they won't have to do any hard work. Well, they haven't got it done yet, and I'll bet they'll hear the tramp of Uncle "Solon Chase's Cowhide Boots" before they're done with the job.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

The sun now rises at 7:07 and sets at 4:46; the day has lengthened 34 minutes thus far and by the last day in January will have gained 51 minutes.

Sent in: "Negro carolers sang at Lincoln's tomb in Springfield, Ill. last Christmas for the first time in history."

A gold locket and chain, lost on Main Street, is advertised in the Intelligence Column. Finder will do a great favor by leaving it in this office. We will get in touch with the owner.

A medium sized rubber for the right shoe was brought in Friday by Ernest Martin, who found it near Witherell Park. Would be glad to make a turn over to the owner.

Geraldine Woods, Oxford Park, South Paris, sent us a pair of glasses she found on Beal or Tucker street about two weeks ago. The name of the optician, Ralph H. Wright, Boston, is on the inside. Owner can find them in our office museum.

J. Shirley Stevenson has an ad in this issue regarding the office of Town Clerk. Read it. Mr. Stevenson will be a candidate for the office.

J. Harry Stuart of South Paris says he has the old original plan of the tract of land under controversy on page 2 of this issue, which is entitled "Tract of Land in Poland, Not in Otisfield."

Fred M. Davis, formerly of Norway, who entertains with Chief Welch, the electrician man, has written a story about pitchees, and life on the road. We expect to print it soon for the hardships are described and much the public accepts is debunked.

The Wickerham Commission has made its report, the Methodist Church bell in Rochester, N. H., has been rung, celebrating the victory. So reports the papers. This undoubtedly settles the temperance matters for the whole country!

Carroll DeCoster and Harry Goodwin, under the firm name of DeCoster & Goodwin, are selling fresh eggs and dressed poultry and run a delivery route making deliveries, Tuesdays and Fridays.

Some people have forgotten to hang up a new calendar or are taking a long chance with the law. It is said at least two autos have been seen with last year's number plates, within a week. About time to change, believe it or not.

Somehow we are greatly favored. Never received so many calendars, almanacs and dies as in the recent past. We have nineteen different specimens of "long tails." Each one is perfect and kills. I. W. W.'s "Last Resorts" and "Shorties," "Best." A train of fly beggars is assured when the fishing season opens.

As the annual town meeting approaches people begin to talk of new town officers. We have heard so far of two—David Klain for town clerk and Ray Eastman for selectman. Beyond question there will be others popping out. Some say give the young fellows a show.

Dr. R. S. Houghton of St. Louis, Mo., has placed an ad in this paper. He has opened an office in the Pratt building at South Paris, for the practice of his profession. He is an osteopathic physician and Rectal Specialist.

E. W. Brown, or "Pete R. G. Truthful Brown" is logged in the wilds of Hano-over this winter and says, "he has not much to read and wants to send him a copy of this paper for three months." We can't see how that is going to help him very much.

Albert A. Town, chairman of the Southern Oxford Chapter of Red Cross, calls attention to the annual meeting held at the Norway Municipal Court room on Saturday, Jan. 31st, at 2 o'clock for the election of officers and to make plans for the drive for funds. See ad in this issue.

W. H. Farrington of Center Lovell called in Saturday. He has returned from a month's stay in Florida and has been stopping with a daughter and husband at Fryburg. He figured an auto smashup near Portland, badly damaged the front of his car, but only received slight injury to the left wrist.

Judge Robert B. Dow, and attorney Shirley Stevenson with offices in the Old Fellows' Block, are bothered with too much static electricity. On Monday, sparks could be drawn by a finger from light fixtures, steam pipes, iron safes and other metal objects. How, when, and where they know not. Getting shot with rubber soles was suggested as a cure.

Mrs. Alma P. Hayden writes: "For a number of years I have not made an account of my birthdays, have just let them pass without any publicity, so what was my surprise to receive a lovely birthday card from Mrs. Estelle Crocker Bell, saying that I had written the date in her 'birthday book' in 1924."

James F. C. Walker of Oxford Park brought a nice, fresh cucumber to the office, Wednesday. The cucumber is one-half inches long, ten and one-half inches in circumference, and weighs one pound and twelve ounces. Picked in a sunny window and sun rays remained until left in care of the Sports Editor. James says the cucumber is larger than when picked, hence it must be an air-feeder, or drawing on itself, perpetual motion like.

John Simpson of South Paris has a copy of the Rhodesia Herald published in British South Africa, which is a metropolitan magazine in every particular. Being a pioneer number the early struggles and later British conquests are emphasized. The advertising is decidedly American and sporting events, especially the game of cricket, is featured with political and fraternal stories. It is a good idea that Africa is a black continent, overrun with jungles and head hunters, one glance at the splendid half tones will knock that out. Mr. Simpson received the paper from his brother, Alexander Simpson, a native of Scotland, who migrated to Africa thirty years ago.

"Who's Who in the East" for 1930, is a volume of 2232 pages. It was gotten out by the Easttown Publishing Company of Washington, D. C. In the publisher's preface it states: "An individual gains admission to 'Who's Who in the Eastern States' only by virtue of his attainments and no one can purchase his way into this publication."

While there is a large number of persons in the book from Maine, there are only a very few from Oxford County and of this few, Norway has four—all solicited by the publisher—an unusual honor for the town. Their names are: Dr. and Madam Sealers Stephens, Hugh Pendexter and Judge C. F. Whitman. The names of Don C. Seitz and Walter L. Sanborn are in the book. These added to the others make a pretty big showing for one town like Norway.

Dr. F. E. Mitchell, Alton, N. H., adds his mite by saying:

"I've been much interested in all you have published about Ordway's Grove. Mr. Don C. Seitz has performed a truly noble act. A tree is a thing of beauty, and a symbol of patience, fidelity and persistence. If protected from the ravages of man and of insects, a tree will persist in its growth and be able to send growth into its branches; this even when the soil is weak and the conditions adverse."

Would it be a stretch of imagination to look upon a tree as a friend, almost a brother, of man? It stands ready to protect him from sun and wind and rain. And it waits patiently for such opportunity.

A village without trees, without a grove of them in close proximity, has a deserted and lifeless appearance. Whenever I see a tree on a hot summer day, I imagine I hear it whisper, "Come hither and enjoy my shade."

By all means, preserve Ordway's Grove. And fix it, if you can, so that it will be preserved indefinitely.

Harry Shorey of the Bridgton News says:

"The Norway Advertiser has won out in its valiant fight for preservation of 'Ordway's Grove,' which all goes to show that the pen is mightier than the axe. Don Seitz, formerly of Norway and a former business manager of the New York World, now a free lance, has come to the rescue and has placed it in trust in a deed to Clarence G. Morton, of South Paris, under the provisions that he shall hold it until some suitable body can be found to take it over in perpetuity."

"We don't know just what Ordway's Grove is nor where it is located, but we congratulate the editor of the Advertiser upon his successful fight. Mr. Seitz is running the best country newspaper in the state, but we can't seem to win him over to the belief that it would be greatly improved if he would include among his features a good live editorial column."

"He may be like the minister, who was urging the young fellow just out of school to go to college. The youngster's argument was: 'I'm making more money than you are right now, why should I go to college?'"

Norway Church Items

Methodist
 One of the most powerful and helpful sermons that has been given in the history of the little white church on Beal Street was given by our pastor, Rev. Mr. Lyon, at the morning service of worship last Sunday, Jan. 18. The sermon was given through the definite channels of the minister's own private experience through a number of years. The color and insight of the heart-given message will long be in the minds of those who attended. His subject was "Four Reasons Why I Turn to Jesus." The Senior Epworth League was largely attended at the 6:15 session. Elmer L. Aldrich was the leader of these young people and his topic was "Builders." The message was clearly given and made its appeal.

In the evening, at the 7 o'clock service, Rev. Mr. Lyon gave the first installment in the series of services to be given Sunday evenings at the church. The sermon was given by the minister, who took from the pen of Harold Bell Wright's novel, "God and the Grocerman." During the evening story sermon, although the pastor spoke for fifty minutes, there was silent bustle over the big congregation as though a fairy's wand was being silently used in magic influence. Many people who were present expressed a desire to hear the entire series as outlined by the minister, and as the story is unfolded, step by step, the old story becomes new and enthralling as a new tale that has "never been told." The plot was given as an opening introduction, and a synopsis and background of the author's dream were likewise vividly portrayed. The story is dramatically given by Rev. Mr. Lyon, who uses music as an instrument of interpretation. "Fascinating, gripping, and inspiring," is the reviewer's comment on the drama-novel, and it is expected that these Sunday evening presentations will continue to attract large crowds even to filling the entire auditorium. A big attendance last Sunday evening greeted the pastor when he came from his study into the church. By request, Mr. Lyon sang a vocal solo.

The junior vested choir sang a special number, and a song service participated in by all, was an enjoyable feature. It is expected that because of numerous requests, the pantomime "Silent Night, Holy Night," will be an added attraction in the evening's service program. Nine young ladies will take part in this beautiful and dramatic episode. Everybody is welcome.

Next Sunday morning Rev. A. I. Oliver, district superintendent of the Methodist Churches in the Rockland district, will be present at the 10:30 morning service of worship. Rev. Oliver will preach the sermon and will go with Rev. Lyon to Boler's Mills in the afternoon for that service there at 2 o'clock. After the evening service in Norway, Rev. Mr. Oliver will hold the Fourth Quarterly Conference with the official board of the church.

It is expected that Elmer Aldrich will continue to serve as leader with these progressing young people of the Epworth League society. The meeting starts promptly at 6:15. All young folks invited.

Rev. Mr. Lyon was the afternoon speaker at one of the very best attended meetings that has recently been held in South Paris under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. A large representation of the ladies assembled at the home of Mrs. Agnes Morton on Pine Street. The topic as chosen by Mr. Lyon was "Temperance A Science." He spoke of the prohibition problem and its legalistic prerogatives as something decidedly different from the Temperance challenge with its moral inherent individual tendency. He said, "Temperance is a quality of the soul and prohibition a product of the law." "The next election," he said, "will be not a matter of choosing a candidate who as president promises strict enforcement, but it will be a matter of whether the country will vote to repeal the 18th amendment or whether it will hold tenaciously to its dry program." Mr. Lyon reviewed the ten years of Prohibition and proved that Temperance success is fully assured because of education, science and philosophy, which a progressing, morally thinking, Christian nation is bound to individually and collectively accept in its onward march in the realm of spiritual and altruistic achievement.

Universalist
 The Ladies' Circle will meet Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Glenn R. Motfield, Pleasant Street, for work and a social hour. Last week, there were 25 at the paragonage, and good progress was made on a quilt.

Everett in charge. The committee will be glad to receive orders for anything wanted specially, also baked beans, and brown bread.

Next Wednesday evening at 7:15 the Home Department will meet in the vestry. Hostess for the evening, Mrs. Adeline Olmstead.

The church, in their reading of the scriptures, began the Second Epistle of Paul to the Corinthians on Tuesday, Jan. 20th, reading a chapter a day. Read with us. ASTRONOMICAL AND PHYSICAL NOTES
 During the year of 1930, at Mt. Wilson Observatory, operators have exposed a photograph plate for 45 hours of time to a very faint nebula in a star cluster in Ursa Major, in extra galactic regions (beyond the Milky Way). The observer assigned this nebula at a distance of 75,000,000 light years (a little less than 6 billions of miles equals a light year).

Determination of the speed of light by A. A. Michelson, at Mt. Wilson, Cal., in 1924 has a result of 186,359 miles per second of time. In the present year 1931, a new test is being made through a tube of vacua, 3 ft. diameter and one mile long.

75 millions of years is a long time for light to radiation to be coming from a nebula to the earth, but from the Great Nebula of Andromeda, which is nearly a million light years distant, we can see this nebula as a hazy spot, with the unaided eye, yet 75 times more distant is the Ursa Major nebula.

The value is obtained by the extremely long time exposure, photographically, to its image of 45 hours with the largest telescope. This is believed to be the true distance of the nebula of space, and that as yet is reported. Wait until the endeavor to construct a telescope that is four times more powerful is accomplished.

This must interest Einstein (as well as the whole world) for it is understood that his hypothetical theory is that the Universe has limited boundaries and he is now visiting the places where the sounding of the depths of space, and the testing, by experiment for a true knowledge of light speed is being carried on.

'SHAVINGS' AT 73, WHITTLES WINDMILLS THAT WON HIM FAME IN LINCOLN PLAY

The following is of special local interest, as the drama by that name will be presented here next week.

"Chatham has lost its noted character, 'Shavings,' for the winter months. A. B. Edwards, made famous by Joseph Lincoln in his novel, 'Shavings,' is at present in Wollaston, whitening out the same type of windmills that won him fame in 1920 when Lincoln's book was dramatized. At the age of 73 he is preparing stock for his summer shop at Chatham.

"The typical Cape Cod Carpenter and windmill maker is still a little doubtful that he is the original of Lincoln's 'Shavings.'"

"You remember," he says, "how the book describes an old bachelor, who had a liking for a widow. Now, right there is a difference between me and the character in the book, because I'm married and have two sons and two daughters. One of my sons and one of my daughters live here in Wollaston."

"He recalled, however, a visit ten years ago of his shop from John McKee, stage manager for Henry Savage, accompanied by Mrs. McKee.

"They came in, looked around, and bought about $300 worth of goods that they wanted shipped to New York," he related. "I learned a little while later that Savage was producing Joe Lincoln's book in New York. Then McKee sent me a letter which said, 'We have taken your shop as a model for the stage arrangement of the comedy. Come down to New York when the play is produced and see how the people here like your shavings shop.'"

"Shavings did not go. Neither did he attend the performance of the play in New Bedford, for he was too busy with his summer trade at that time. Later, however, he witnessed the portrayal of 'Shavings' in Boston.

"Lincoln first met 'Shavings' many years before the book was written. He was building a new home and Edwards was hired as a carpenter.

Saco Valley United Parish

Ministering to Lovell, Fryeburg Harbor, North, West and Center Tying, Stow, Union Hill and Toll Bridge

The first supper-meeting of the Pioneers of the whole parish, held at the Harbor, Friday evening, was a big success. The ladies brought grub and fixed up the meal, and after the tables were cleared, the regular business and social part was held. Raymond Larabee of Fryeburg Academy was guest speaker, and gave a very interesting chat with demonstrations on magnetism and electricity. Then followed all kinds of relay races and games, finished up with some interesting wrestling. Lovell vs. The Harbor, with Normal Allen and Willis Guphill wrestling for the honor of their home place, was a keen best, with Willis' extra weight finally telling in favor of the Harbor. About two dozen boys were present from Lovell, North Fryeburg, Stow, Union Hill and the Harbor. The evening closed with a short business session in which it was unanimously agreed to hold all-parish supper meetings every two weeks.

Horvitz the guest, the hall and the phone blared the news that the Bates College Deputation would visit the parish a week earlier than at first planned. Although they got delayed back in the States, the Bates Deputation, including Larabee, and Russell, all seniors of Bates College, turned up in the middle of the supper at Lovell Saturday evening. After the supper, the young fellows engaged in a very lively games period. During the fun, the Lovell Pioneers attempted to sing George's old-time birthday songs, but were not as successful as they were in the races and contests.

The college boys spoke at all the parish services on Sunday. Larabee and Russell addressed the Lovell congregation at the Harbor in the morning, and were two of the speakers for the evening service. Russell conducted the morning service at North Fryeburg and spoke at the Harbor in the evening. All three students visited West Fryeburg for the afternoon service. The boys returned back to Lovell Sunday night.

An invitation having been received from the Conway Power League, the Harbor young people will take as many young people as possible to a social in the Conway hall, Friday evening. Two very interesting and beautiful colored sets of slides, one on South-East and the other on "Twenty-One Nationalities in One Church," have come from Boston, and will be shown at all services in the parish. Stow and then West Fryeburg will have them. The slides will show them at 6:30 p.m. preliminary to the evening service at Lovell.

The Winter Carnival will be on St. Valentine's Day. Everybody should get prepared up on snowshoes and skis.

Talk On Roads

A. G. Staples, from the Lewiston Journal

I have in mind a certain road in Maine that thrills me, every time I pass over it. It comes westward out of Bangor and the thrill comes in Stockholm or there about, where a high hill brings to view the Atlantic ocean and the isles of Norway or Penobscot. A farm-house fronts it. I dream of it frequently in sleep.

Roads are like people—interesting or not, according as you yourself find interest.

Straight roads are not so pleasing. They seem to hurry one. They are stingy of time. They may offer a wide and various landscape, but it appears to be by accident rather than in the kindly purpose of pleasing. These straight roads are slithering with traffic and one's apprehensions are for cars coming miles and miles away, long before there is occasion for nothing than the all. There is no beauty in a straight line. According to Einstein there is not even honest mathematics in one of them.

One may reasonably prefer a certain sort of road that is like a good sort of loveable, but rather vexatious person—not dependable, but always happy and smiling.

There are people like that, who vex you, as you love them the more and more for their very non-dependability. They behave like good-natured St. Bernard puppy-dogs; gamboling about and very happy, but not to be found when wanted.

There are roads of that sort. They are as natural as carefree children. They go in unexpected places. They are good, then bad, then very good and then bad. Then they come suddenly on a town with a bridge, a waterfall, a little mill, a white church, with green shutters and a bronze tablet on a boulder by the roadside, commemorating some revolutionary deed; and the road suddenly passing into highway under arching trees, a deserted house or two, about and past lovely, able turnings and twisting around knolls and past little brooks; and then it may stray most wickedly from righteousness and become as blank as a bad boy, when caught in mischief.

You do not expect much from these roads, in the way of "goodness" in terms of frantic automobilists; but if you like that sort of roads, you will like that sort of folk. Apparently they never have thought seriously. They never have been taught "efficiency," or "service"; but they have a lot of fun in them. They scamper up hill and down hill; they wade brooks, sometimes going up of itself out of the road, and then they come back again, and the road suddenly passing into highway under arching trees, a deserted house or two, about and past lovely, able turnings and twisting around knolls and past little brooks; and then it may stray most wickedly from righteousness and become as blank as a bad boy, when caught in mischief.

It is well to look out when you plunge a twelve foot automobile into one of these roads and know it it does come out, so to speak. We drove on one of the loveliest roads of this sort that I ever saw one day a year or so ago, in going to Rangeley Lakes. It landed in a pasture, with pasture-bars confronting it. The road had simply played itself out. It was a tired child; and coming to a beautiful pasture looking on a lovely lake, had cradled its head on its arm and gone to sleep.

There is a sort of road that is like uninteresting people—and there are many of us, at that. They are just commonplace. They do not say anything; or if they say anything it is not worth listening to as a rule. They are content with awful billboards and appeals to stop at 500 yards along and get some crab-meat. They are "eating-roads; messing roads." They advertise shaving cream. And bear in mind this truth: Opportunities for such advertising. There is no beauty to interest the mind, otherwise. There are slovenly roads, like soiled people; and there are fine straight roads, clean and decorative, with gentle curves and fine architecture—like staunch business-men, in ruffled linen and wearing broadcloth.

Just the same with roads to walk upon—forest trails and tote-roads and roads into remote places for backboards. They all have personality. Bends in roads are essential as are bends in rivers; they whet the curiosity. What is behind the bend; what is "over the hill"—what but new adventure. We remember walking once up the Wissatiquik along an old road. The Wissatiquik is a river running out of Katahdin lake. It starts at Lunenburg. On its way there is a camping-place. By the camping place are graves of river-drivers lost in "running the stream". Their names are cut on a boulder as big as a cottage house. On top of that boulder balanced a long spruce log, left there when the timber was back was up and now twenty feet in air in that midsummer low-water period. Do not tell me that the road had no personality. It spoke of itself as a way of struggle, achievement, peril, death.

AN OLD GAME

This is the time of year when many citizens are finding in their mail the package that is unwelcome, unwanted and unwanted. For several years local residents have been bothered by the nuisance of receiving boxes of socks, neckties, gloves and other merchandise through the mails which they have not ordered.

Along with it comes a bill and a sympathetic plea for an immediate remittance. But it is not necessary to send the money requested nor is it necessary that you return the merchandise, according to postal regulations. Place the package away for a reasonable length of time, and if the company sends a representative, give it to him. Do not pay for it and don't return it. It may look like a severe way of breaking up this nuisance, but it is legal, and if you will resort to it you will soon find that you will not be troubled any more by such unethical methods of merchandising.—Arroostook Republican.

Henry Ford performed a great service for humanity when he finally developed a car whose horn could be heard above its rattle.

Muscular-Rheumatic Aches and Pains

DRAW them out with a "counter-irritant." Distressing muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness—scarcely respond pleasantly to good old Musterole. Doctors call it a "counter-irritant," because it gets action and is not just a salve. Musterole helps bring soreness and pain to the surface, and thus gives natural relief. You get how its warming action penetrates and stimulates blood circulation. But do not stop with one application. Apply this soothing, cooling, healing ointment generously to the ached area once every hour for five hours. Used by millions for over 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses.

Keep Musterole handy; jars and tubes. To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

DON'T

Don't go shootin', hit or miss, though you have 'a' urge. Though th' noise may 'tract attention, Make a sort of 'spurge, But the echo's fading, Powder's gone to waste. Folks repent at leisure, The folly of their haste. What's the use o' shootin' 'Less you're gonna sin, Bangin', wildly, all your powder, Won't land any game. Gotta have your sights right, Gotta practice some, Shootin' at a target, Afore success will come. —C. R. MILLS.

The current rate of interest allowed by the Company on policy dividends is 5 1/2% per annum. Ask for circular (15M).
